

The Impact of In Utero and External Exposures and Injuries on the Developing Nervous System

Friday, June 16, 2017 • 8:00am-5:00pm • NHRMC Auditorium • Wilmington, NC

CONFERENCE SUMMARY

The brain is one of the first organs to develop which makes it more vulnerable to the effects of maternal infections and medications. Neuronal injury from perinatal asphyxia has been extensively studied and therapeutic hypothermia if done within a few hours after injury, offers promising results in limiting its life long sequela. This conference aims to discuss the latest research regarding relevant topics in pediatric neurology as it pertains to maternal zika virus infection, medication exposures and the long term effects of experiencing pain during infancy.
